humanity prisoner. Now, they are preparing to rise again. In the span of a few months, the dormant Machines are waking to a new world that has little to do with the one they remember... ..as humanity has a new hope: to rebuild their civilization on the scattered remains of their former world! As master tactician, you command your units on the battlefield, commanding thousands of soldiers and thousands of technologies, from the ancient and diverse races of Earth's past to the emergent terraformers of the future. You will be called upon to face incredible odds and come together with an eclectic cast of characters to stop the machines once and for all. Your only opposition will be the Machines themselves... but even they may well be unsure of themselves.
